

Section 3

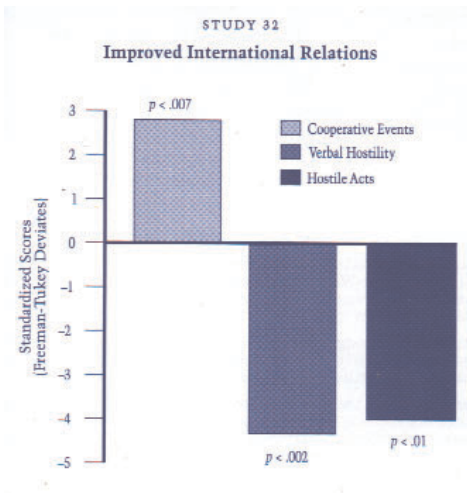

Maharishi Vedic Military Science can be practically applied to solve the problem of modern military science's inability to protect the people of the nation it is pledged to protect.

The four main problems with modern military science are:

- Lack of ability to destroy the “enemy”
- Fear generated within one's own nation
- Frustration created within the “enemy”
- Lack of the ability to defend the nation

In the first section we outlined why the modern military due to the principle of deterrence had these problems.

In this section, section three I will spell out how through the implementation of Maharishi Vedic Military Science these problems will be solved and how the military will be able to reclaim its position of being the most glorious of professions.

During a 10-week period in 1978, when coherence-creating groups of participants in Maharishi's Transcendental Meditation and TM-Sidhi program went to five major trouble-spot areas in the world, international relations improved—verbal hostility and hostile acts declined, and cooperative events increased. The improvements in these three conflict-scale categories were determined by time series analysis of worldwide data from the Conflict and Peace Data Bank International File.

1. Modern Science showing the Validity of Maharishi Vedic Military Science

Since Maharishi predicated the Maharishi effect in 1961 modern science has been able to show in over 42 conclusive scientific sociological studies that it is a real phenomenon.

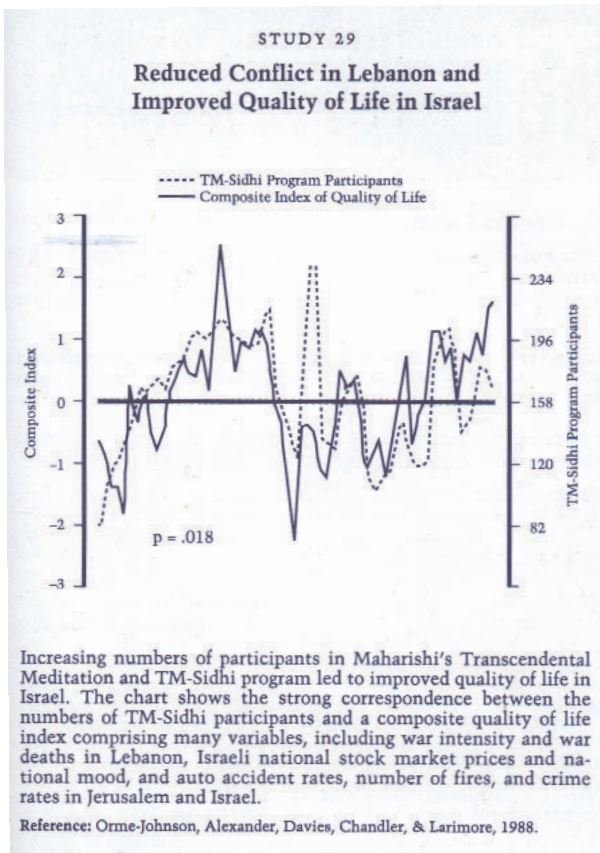

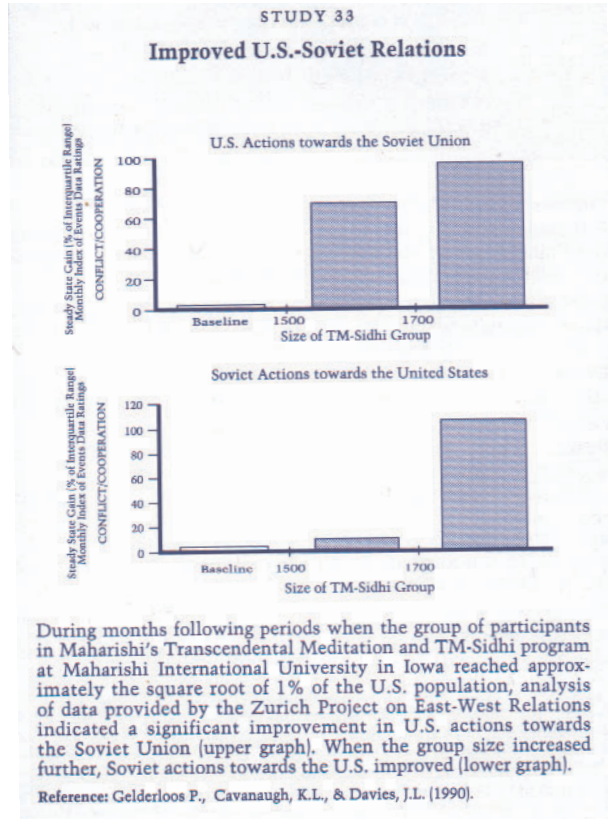

The Maharishi effect as created by the strategy of defense Yoga Shanti applies directly to all four problems the modern military face today.

As was said in section 2, the Maharishi Effect spreads coherence, enlivening the Veda within the individuals throughout society, but it also spills over into other countries as well.

The ability to destroy the enemy lies best in making him your friend.

In 1978 1400 experts in the TM and TM-Sidhi program dispersed around the world to different areas torn by conflict and hostilities. One scientific study that looked at the effects documented that international relations dramatically improved between the different nations of the world.

Another scientific study compiled in 1990 documented improved relations between the United States of America and the Soviet Union when large groups came together to practice the TM and TM-Sidhi Program. This particular study shows the dynamics of how the Maharishi effect is only powerful enough to cause any noticeable difference to a population when the practitioners of the TM- and TM-Sidhi program reaches the threshold of the square root of one percent of the population.

The process of making the enemy your friend does not even require the Military to send forces to that country. In 1983 a group of Yogic Flyers traveled to Israel where they stopped the war in Lebanon.

The second problem of fear generated within the home nation is also the province of Yoga Shanti.

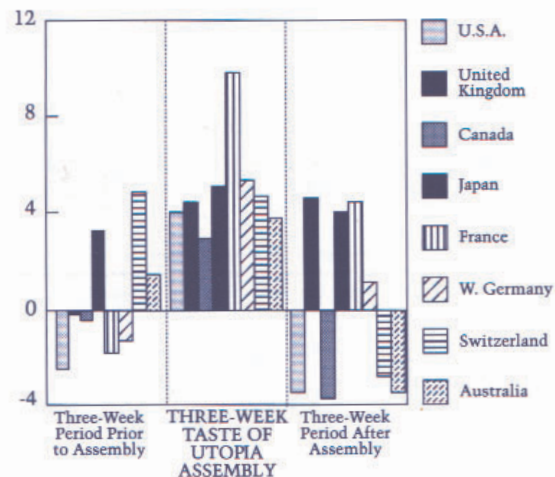

The study that clearly shows quality of life improving within the nation was a study compiled in 1988, which shows how the Maharishi effect created a change in the quality of life in a positive direction in 1978.

The problem of frustration created in the enemy is solved when the enemy no longer is an enemy but is your friend. Solving this problem is the province of Yoga Shanti once again. Not only do we make him our friend through the application of the technologies of Yoga Shanti, the TM and TM-Sidhi Program, but we also nourish him.

One study conducted in 1983 shows how all nations of the world gained through increased stock market indices over a three-week period when 7,000 practitioners of the TM and TM-Sidhi program came together. 7,000 at the time was the square root of one percent of the whole world population so every body enjoyed the fruits of this implementation of Yoga Shanti.

The fourth major flaw in modern military science is lack of ability to defend the nation. I am going to say that a country that is properly protected should have the reality of all good everywhere and no good nowhere.

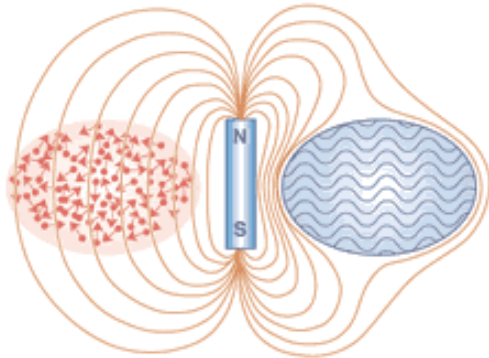

During the Taste of Utopia Assembly, the major stock markets of the world increased simultaneously, indicating balanced economic growth worldwide. After the Assembly the same major stock markets reverted to a pattern similar to that seen prior to the Assembly, with some increasing and some decreasing.

The defense of the nation is the province of all three areas of strategy contained within the structure of Maharishi Vedic Military Science.

Yoga Shanti displays the power of creating invincibility to the nation on the level of collective consciousness as displayed by the Meissner Effect.

Meissner Effect:

An Example of Invincibility in the Quantum Physics of Superconductivity

In an ordinary electrical conductor, incoherent, disordered electrons allow penetration by an external magnetic field. In a superconductor, coherent collective functioning of the electrons spontaneously excludes an external magnetic field, and maintains its impenetrable status. Maharishi (1998).

Maharishi Effect:

Creating an Invincible Armor for the Nation

National Armor: an invincible border that makes the nation impenetrable to any harmful influence from the outside. Maharishi (1998).

Graha Shanti protects the nation from the effects of the different cosmic influences, the Grahas, Rashis, and Nakshatras.

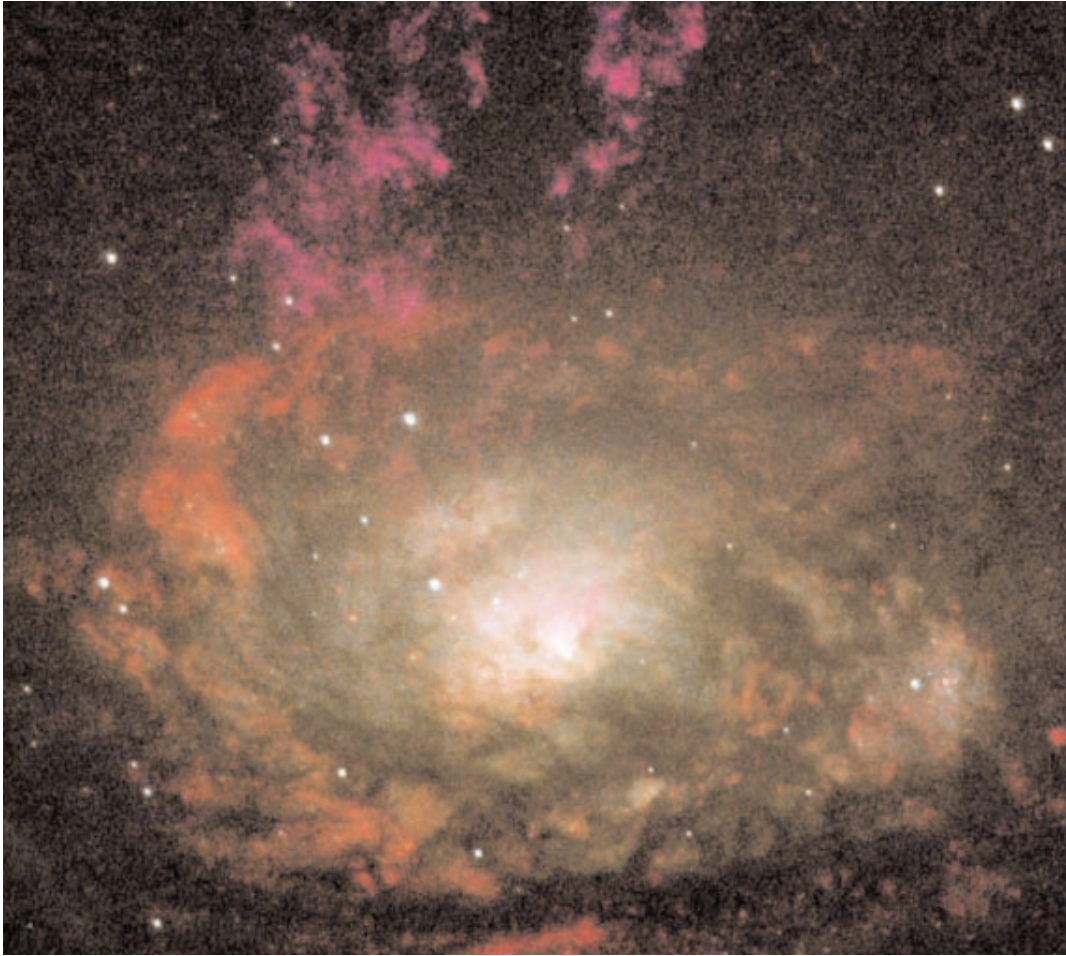

Every Planet in the solar system corresponds to a specific structure within the human brain, physiology. The planets are the cosmic counterparts of the brain physiology. Positive and negative results of ones own thoughts and actions are reflected back to one through the planets.

Graha Shanti Protects the nation form any negative influence that might come from the Cosmic Counterparts and enhances the positive influences for all good in the nation.

Vishva Shanti would fulfill the role that the modern military plays with its strategies of defense concerned with Dhanur Veda and Sthapatya Veda the most modern and powerful technology available to man.

So all three areas of life need to be defended so protect the nation properly so that there is all good everywhere and no good nowhere.

Conclusion

Maharishi Vedic Military Science has the ability to protect the life of the nation, the life of creation so that it is in tune with the invincible force of evolution. No military today can make this claim.

We have seen that modern military science cannot protect the nation, due to the nature of the enemy, and the state of current technology in use by the militaries of the world. We have seen that Maharishi Vedic Military Science has shown through scientific research to be the only technology in the world able to create peace and prosperity in the. Furthermore Maharishi Vedic Military Science has the ability to protect the nation, the world to such an extent that human life can once again step in tune with cosmic life.

At the beginning of the paper I said that being in the military is the most divine profession available to man, that it is sacrifice of ones own desire for the desire of the universe. Maharishi Vedic Military Science puts the life of every individual in the military on this sphere of reality where the actions of the military are Cosmic Actions, in accord with all the laws of nature.
